2. DEFINITION

Culture – “A particular state or stage of civilisation as in the case of a certain nation or period; the sum total of ways of living built up by a group of human beings which is transmitted from one generation to another.” (Source: The Macquarie Dictionary)

In defining culture for the purposes of a cultural policy, Council simply seeks to recognise and enhance, not confine or predetermine, the values that give this community its’ sense of identity and belonging.

Culture is the expression of the history, tradition, heritage, customs, practices, activities, creativity, innovations and values of a community that define them as a distinctive group, past, present and future.

3. VISION

The people of Byron Shire belong to a vibrant community which embraces both traditional and alternative lifestyles, with each of our towns, villages and localities having its own distinctiveness.

Byron Shire Council seeks to work in partnership with the community to ensure our programs reflect the diverse cultural desires of the community. Council works to identify resources needed to enhance the diverse and colourful cultural tapestry of our community and together with the community Council will take a strong stand to protect the characteristics that make Byron Shire unique and ensure this culture can flourish.

Council continues to be partners in reconciliation. It supports the protection and enhancement of Aboriginal traditions and values in relation to the land and recognition of their status as traditional owners of the land.

4 PRINCIPLES:

The principles which guide this policy are as follows:

4.1 Identity and sense of place

Cultural identity is a mixture of unique natural environment and social diversity. Places have cultural meaning that are created and enhanced by the Shire's distinctiveness and liveability.

Byron Shire Council recognises that places have cultural meanings for people that contribute to their sense of identity and belonging – meanings that are created and enhanced by the shire's distinctiveness and its liveability. Council acknowledges the cultural contribution of Aboriginal people and recognises this through the Heads of Agreement between Council and the Arakwal.

The cultural identity of the shire is due to an amalgam of its unique natural environment and its social diversity.

Council believes that a strong identity and sense of place is necessary for the effective management of our economic and social prosperity as well as our environmental sustainability.

Council believes that our distinctive lifestyles and sense of place must determine our sustainable future and quality of life.

4.2 Creativity and innovation

Creativity, innovation and education are the foundation of the Shire's social, economic, natural and cultural capital.

Creativity is innovation in all spheres of life

Shire residents' creative resources and endeavours build social, economic, natural and cultural capital.

Creativity is the quality things the community innovate, express in the arts, inventiveness in business and industry, in the acceptance of risk, as well as in the strategies for cultural development.

4.3 Acceptance and diversity

Cultural diversity includes Aboriginal, racial, religious, spiritual, traditional and alternative interests and pursuits.

Embracing diversity and acceptance of difference are the hallmarks of our cultural identity and the essential ingredient for sustaining cultural vitality.

Diversity offers every individual or group an opportunity to contribute to a shared culture.

4.4 Access and opportunity

Engagement in cultural and community activities relies on inclusiveness and access.

Cultural development is achieved by consultation, openness and participation and access to information.

A culturally rich environment is one that optimises opportunities for engagement in cultural activities, and where self-expression and community involvement are facilitated and encouraged.

Access is affordability, availability and physical access in terms of transportation, safety and design as well as access to information.

4.5 Conservation and sustainability

A sustainable future requires balance between ecological preservation and the need to develop according to current economic and social trends. Today's decisions should not impact adversely on future generations.

Conservation is care of the natural environment and preservation of our cultural heritage.

A sustainable future depends on maintaining functioning and viable ecosystems, since no activities can be sustained into the long term without these. A sustainable future requires a well-maintained ecologically sensitive balance between the needs of today's community to develop according to current economic and social needs and the needs of the future communities to do the same.

4.6 Co-operation and integration

Cultural development thrives in a collaborative environment where Council, the community and the private sector share aspirations.

Byron Shire's cultural development is affected by many aspects of Council's activities and operations.

This policy recognises that effective cultural development cannot take place in isolation, rather it will take place most effectively where collaboration and collective action takes place, where there are shared aspirations between Council, the community, and the private sector.

4.7 Recreation, Health and Wellbeing

The climate and natural environment is conducive to community wellbeing through a healthy and active lifestyle.

This Policy recognises the importance of wellbeing enhancement for sustainable communities. Wellbeing in this context embraces both physical and spiritual health.
